I'm not exactly sure if this is what you're looking for. I would recommend checking your course syllabus to see what the requirements are. The linked article doesn't have a title so I'm assuming it's not the right post. It may be helpful to format your post with a title, subtitles if needed, and a good intro paragraph that summarizes the content of the blog post in 1-3 sentences. This will help readers scan through blog posts to find the one they need quickly and easily. If your instructor requests that you provide a specific citation, then use the format above. If not, then this is generally how academic citations are structured. You can also leave out the "MLA" part if MLA isn't required for your class/institution. When referencing online materials, you should always provide a date of access. This information is provided in the URL of the website so you don't have to actually copy/paste anything into your post.

Kaskus - Pendaftaran Sekolah Bahasa Asing PTBI Jakarta http://forum.kaskus.co.id/showthread. php?t=1553589 PTBI Jakarta - Kecamatan Baru-Baru http://www.ptbi.edu.id/course/index2.php?detail=41&language=1&courseid=86&idpg=5100 PTBI Jakarta - Kecamatan Sei Rampai http://www.ptbi.edu.id/course/index2.php?detail=41&language=1&courseid=179&idpg=5100 http://www. stanford.edu/dept/english/centers/lrc/resources/intro-to-retailing.html?utm_source=external&utm_medium=enlrc&utm_campaign=intro-to-retailing http://www.stanford.edu/dept/english/centers/lrc/resources.html?utm_source=external&utm_medium=enlrc&utm_campaign=resources Popular culture [edit] Greimas, A., Lausanne: Presses Universitaires de Geneve, 1984. Pp. 6-7.

Phinney, M. (2004). Understanding the Multiracial Experience. Boston: Allyn and Bacon. Robinson, J. (1993). Crossing, Criticism, and Cultural Studies: With Other Politically Inspired Stories of the kind that Don't Fade Away with Time; Or When is a Clan Not a Clan? The Warwick Journal of Philosophy (Vol 6). Robinson, J., & Ellis R., (Eds.). (1996). Cultural studies in question : new lines of inquiry. Thousand Oaks : Sage Publications Ltd., 1996. Pp. 352-353.

308eeb4e9f3276